Experts Set Defense Budget: $34.5 Billion

Tax Cut Appears Unlikely

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A near-final decision to set the new defense budget at about $34½ billion dollars was reported Tuesday by President Eisenhower and his military and budget experts.

That is roughly the rate of defense spending for this fiscal year. Secretary of Defense Wilson said he expects "no major change" in the total of the new budget — for the new fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Since defense takes about two out of every three dollars the government spends, there appeared to be dim prospects that the administration would be able to recommend any sizeable tax cut to Congress. The lawmakers, of course, could take it on themselves to put through a substantial reduction in an election year. It's been done before.

Eisenhower went over the defense budget for an hour and a half at a conference in his headquarters in the Gettysburg Post Office. Crowded into the small room with him were:

Wilson; Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Budget Director Rowland Hughes; Deputy Director Percival F. Brundage; W. J. McNeil, Pentagon budget officer; and Col. Andrew Goodpastor, secretary of the White House staff.

Wilson told reporters "no final figure" was arrived at. But McNeil indicated it was all but final and said there are no plans for further meetings with Eisenhower on the subject.

The secretary said he still stands on what he said at Denver a month and a half ago—that there would be no major change in the military budget for the next fiscal year.

At that time, while the President was hospitalized in Denver from a Sept. 24 heart attack, Wilson said he would regard a change of 5 per cent as important but a lesser shift as "not very important."

The secretary said in Denver that the military budget was being worked out on a basis of keeping manpower at the 1956 level of some 2,850,000 for all the armed forces.

Wilson said he believed defense spending in the present fiscal year ending June 30 can be kept to the latest estimate of 34½ billions.

The 34½ billions is half a billion more than Eisenhower originally recommended. Wilson has explained that it was necessary to spend the additional money because the cost of steel went up. So did military pay, production of some types of fighter planes and bombers was increased, and work was stepped up on a radar picket line in the Arctic.

Four Masked Men Rob Indiana Bank

HAMMOND, Ind. (P)—Four men wearing stocking masks forced four bank employees and three customers to lie on the floor while they scooped money from tills of a branch bank Tuesday.

It was the city's second bank robbery in two weeks.

Robert Collins, manager of the Calumet avenue branch of the Mercantile National Bank, said the holdup men escaped in a blue and white car with "several thousand dollars."

Collins said two of the men came into the bank on busy U. S. 41, shortly before it was to close for the day. One carried a shotgun, the other a pistol.

Two other men followed them in. Collins said, and scooped money from cash drawers while Collins and six others were forced to lie on the floor.

Collins said the men, all apparently young, missed the bigger part of the bank's money in a vault.

Police said the robbers drove west toward Calumet City, Ill., in the car bearing Illinois license plates numbered 1196886.

On Nov. 23 two men in hunting clothes escaped with $13,123 from a branch of the Hoosier State Bank.

Harriman, Mitchell Call On Labor To Speak Out Strongly In Politics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and President Eisenhower's secretary of labor, James P. Mitchell, both called on organized labor Tuesday to speak out strongly in politics.

They had the same, receptive audience — the New York convention of the now merged AFL and CIO. President George Meany and Vice President Walter Reuther of the AFL-CIO already had come out for increased political activity by unions.

GM Lengthens Auto Dealers Franchises To Five Years

WASHINGTON (P)—General Motors, acting to meet charges that it has been highhanded with its retail auto dealers, Tuesday lengthened its franchise agreements with them. The agreements will now run for five years instead of one.

A Senate subcommittee had heard testimony that the short-term agreement was a threat hanging over the dealers. Several dealers testified their contracts had been canceled abruptly on GM complaints they hadn't sold enough cars or had not handled their business the way the higher-ups preferred. Some retailers also said they were put under pressure to accept models and accessories they did not want.

Harlow H. Curtice, president of the huge manufacturing corporation, announced the new move at the resumption of Senate hearings, which he said had produced "misleading" testimony and left the public "grossly misinformed."

He said all 17,000 GM car and truck dealers are being notified that, barring any objection on their part, current sales agreements will be extended to 1960. The dealers, he added, may pull out at any time on 30 days' notice.

Woman Fearing Spinsterhood Sues RR For $250,000

CHICAGO (P)—A woman secretary, who said an accident disfigured her face and left her with a fear of being an old maid, sued a railroad for $250,000 Tuesday.

Miss Julia Reichman, 34, claimed a missile was thrown through the window of a train Oct. 14 on the South Side. She added that flying glass caused cuts on her chin, near her right eye and on her hands.

Her suit, seeking damages from the Illinois Central Railroad, set forth:

"As a direct and necessary consequence of having her face permanently disfigured and deformed as to mar and impair her heretofore attractive appearance and natural beauty, her chances and opportunities of marriage have been greatly diminished and otherwise destroyed, rendering it necessary for her to face the dread and apprehension of spinsterhood."

The suit, filed in Circuit Court, said Miss Reichman is subject to heavy expenses for medical attention and plastic surgery. It also said the missile was not recovered, but that "objects and missiles were hurled through windows" of trains "at frequent intervals" in the past.

Five Sisters Perish In Fire, Mother, Daughter Are Burned

BENTON, Ill. (P)—An explosion and fire destroyed the three-room dwelling of a family of 10 Tuesday taking the lives of 5 young sisters trapped inside.

The mother and another daughter suffered critical burns, and attendants at a Benton Hospital gave them only a "fair" chance of survival.

Two boys in the family escaped along with their 78-year-old grandfather.

The victims were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Wingo. The parents are separated.

They were identified as Nancy, 13, Neva June, 10, Marla, 7, and twins Carolyn and Marlyn, 5.

Coroner Barney Browning said the charred bodies of the five girls were found huddled on a single bed in the room where they slept with their mother, Ruby, 48, and other sister, Agnes, 14.

A coroner's jury ruled the children died in a fire of undetermined origin.

Ike, Mamie Want To Pass On Story Of Rug Makers

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (P)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower want you to know about some of the rugs at their house—and about Bob and Betty Johnson who made them.

This is an unprecedented plug from the White House for a struggling home industry. But there is a reason.

Bob used to fight for Eisenhower in the 70th Infantry, in World War II. A German mortar at Saarbrücken shot away most of his face. He is blind.

Bob, who is 32, spent nearly four years in Valley Forge Hospital. He got out in 1949—the year he married Betty. She is blind, too.

Bob used to live here briefly before the war. He has a brother here, and his mother and father live at nearby Seven Stars. So he and Betty settled down in a brick house about four miles out in the country and tried to make a go of it raising chickens. They failed at that, so they got a loom and tried weaving rugs.

Mrs. Eisenhower heard about them through Gettysburg friends. She has been buying some of their rugs for her own home here. And she has been sending a lot of her own friends who visit her out to the Johnson place to buy more rugs.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference that Mrs. Eisenhower and the President asked him to pass along this "unusual little story."

"They find they are a perfectly delightful couple and wanted me to tell you about them," Hagerty said.

And, he said, they are "greatly touched by their courage" and would like to do something to help a man injured under the President's command.

Rational Approach To Cancer Control Believed Possible

NEW YORK (P)—One of the nation's great research centers said Tuesday "there seems now to be good reason to believe that we have a rational approach to cancer control."

The announcement came in a two-year report by the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research.

Dr. C. P. Rhoads, director of the institute, called the new approach "one which if vigorously and intensively pursued should lead us forward toward our goal."

The report said basic studies have uncovered evidence that every kind of cell has certain peculiar chemical requirements. Scientists at the institute have discovered the actual differences in chemical needs of several kinds of human cancers.

Investigators hope, by alternating or withholding certain chemical requirements, to injure or completely destroy cancerous cells.

The report said it is already possible—under laboratory conditions—routinely to kill some kinds of animal cancer without injuring closely related normal cells. However, chemicals that cure mouse or rat cancer will not necessarily kill human cancer.

The institute also reported on smoking in relation to cancer as follows:

"Most important perhaps is the new statistical evidence that the greater frequency of lung cancer in urban population is associated with greater tobacco use."

"Very outstanding are new statistical data connecting cancer of the larynx (voice box) with heavy smoking. In contrast to lung cancer, however, which seems to be causally related to the inhalation of cigarette smoke, larynx cancer is a factor of any type of tobacco smoke."

Spent Welfare Funds For Gifts, Inciso Says

WASHINGTON (P)—Angelo Inciso, a Chicago union leader, Tuesday described to curious senators how he used union funds for expensive gifts — like $1,000 diamond rings and $500 money clips — to persons who had performed "favors" for his union.

A diamond dial watch may have gone to a Chicago police captain, he said.

Inciso, testifying before a Senate Labor subcommittee in its study of union welfare funds, also told of trips he took to Arizona, Florida and Puerto Rico at union expense.

The witness is president of Local 286 of the AFL-United Auto Workers. Before finally showing up last week, he had ignored two earlier subpoenas and was cited for contempt.

Inciso's testimony also touched on large sums which he said had been lent, without prior knowledge of his union's membership, to manufacturers in whose plants he had organized the workers.

Dulles: Soviet Fomenting War In India Over Goa

Khrushchev Includes Churchill In Renewal Of Barrage At West

RANGOON, Burma (P)—Burma and Russia reaffirmed in a joint communique Tuesday night their support of Red China's claim to Nationalist China's Formosa island stronghold.

This development was accompanied by a fresh oral barrage against the West by Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev. This time Khrushchev included Sir Winston Churchill among his targets.

The communique signed by Premiers Nikolai Bulganin and U. Nu was issued as the Soviet visitors prepared to wind up their official visit to Burma. In addition to its stand on Formosa, the statement called for an unconditional ban on mass destruction weapons and unification of Indochina and Korea.

Bulganin and Khrushchev assailed Portugal for retaining Goa and declared India has the "right to oust" the Portuguese.

Dulles and Khrushchev, in Friday's statement, deplored the Russian remarks as an effort to "foment hatred between the east and West and to divide people who need to feel a sense of unity and fellowship for peace and mutual welfare."

The statement contained no reference to any specific remarks of the Russians.

Khrushchev continued his running attacks on the West in two speeches. Addressing a crowd of Rangoon University students, he said:

"Some Europeans are accustomed to living off Asia. They are trembling because the population of Asia is against them. And we feel joy that they are trembling."

Prophecy that the days of capitalism are approaching their end, Khrushchev said the Communist system will win "because it is the only progressive system in the world."

"Like the human organism, dead cells are being thrown off and new cells are growing," he continued. "We are approaching communism without war. Wars can only harm us. Ideas cannot be stopped by rifles."

In an earlier speech at a political rally here, Khrushchev attacked "colonialism" and Western economic and military defense undertakings in Southeast Asia and the China area.

Again making British journalists a part of his forum, Khrushchev asked why they felt offended when some "facts" of the past were recalled. He said Russia never had waged war on Britain but that the British had engaged the Russians at Sevastopol in the Crimean War.

A little later Khrushchev referred to "the notorious directive" he said Churchill issued in the closing days of World War II to Field Marshal Lord Montgomery to stack captured German arms for reissue to German prisoners for use against the Russians if their advance into Western Europe continued.

Show Big, Fast Jet Transport Helicopter

PHILADELPHIA (P)—Piasecki Helicopter Corp. put the world's biggest and perhaps fastest jet transport helicopter through its paces publicly Tuesday. At the same time the corporation displayed an even more powerful helicopter under construction.

Don R. Berlin, Piasecki's president, told 250 visitors that the new turbine-powered transport, the YH16A "turbo transporter," within its first 20 hours of flying, already has exceeded the official world speed record of 156 m.p.h. for helicopters. The YH16A was clocked unofficially at 166 m.p.h.

After the 40-passenger, 16-ton YH16A's impressive show of ability to hover at any altitude, maneuver in any direction including backward, and climb steeply and fly fast, the visitors were shown its successor, the YH16B is planned as the production model for the Air Force and the Army and will have 3,750-horsepower Allison T56 turbo-prop engines and the ability to use them fully. This compares with the 2,750-horsepower T38 engines in the YH16A and that model's capability of using only 1,800-horsepower of its available power.

FAMILY SO BIG — TWO HOUSES NEEDED
BLYTH, England (P)—Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Felton have been allocated two houses to live in under a government-run low rent housing scheme. The Town Council agreed with their complaint that one house was not big enough. The Feltons have 15 children — 9 boys and 6 girls.

Emphasizes U.S. Not Taking Sides On Point

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles Tuesday accused Russian leaders of trying to provoke India into using force in its quarrel with Portugal over the Portuguese colony of Goa.

Dulles told a news conference that Soviet Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, the Communist party boss, appear to be using their tour of India, Burma and Afghanistan for the purpose of spreading hatred and prejudice.

He said it was to clear such a threatening atmosphere that he joined Portugal's Foreign Minister Paulo Cunha last Friday in decrying what Khrushchev and Bulganin have been saying.

Dulles said he still stands behind that statement, which has caused vehement Indian protests. But he emphasized the statement in no way takes sides between India and Portugal over Goa, the little territory on India's west coast.

Many Western observers in India believe Dulles may have given the Russians fresh ammunition for the propaganda war with the state. Goa is a very sore point with most Indians and one influential American businessman commented in Calcutta Tuesday: "Dulles couldn't have done anything more effective if he wanted to push the Indians further away from the West."

Goa was the scene of bloody clashes between Indian demonstrators and Portuguese troops last August.

India demands that Portugal give up Goa, but Portugal thus far has refused.

Cunha said in Washington last week that his country has little military strength in Goa but would resist to the end if attacked.

Khrushchev and Bulganin, in speeches in India last week, said Portugal's retention of Goa was a "shame toward civilized people." They said India has a "right to oust" the Portuguese.

Khrushchev continued his outburst in Rangoon, Burma, Tuesday, crying "colonialism" and attacking Western economic and military undertakings in Asia.

India's Prime Minister Nehru, while obviously concerned about other anti-Western statements made by his recent Russian visitors, is understood to be gravely upset about Dulles joining in the statement with Cunha.

Dulles refused to be drawn out on domestic politics.

On the question of Berlin, Dulles said the west still holds Russia responsible for what goes on in the Soviet sector of that divided city. If the Russians want to make the Communist East German regime their agent for such things as licensing barges, Dulles said, that's all right. But the Russians are still responsible, he emphasized.

OIL WELL AT McLEANSBORO
TULSA, Okla. (P)—The Carter Oil Co. announced a well brought in Tuesday about 10 miles southwest of McLeansboro, Ill., as one of the larger wells completed this year in Illinois.

The well is flowing 2,280 barrels of 39.6 degree gravity oil daily from the Aux Vases sand at 3,253 to 3,277 feet, the company said.

Known as the No. 3 James D. Lockwood well, it is in section 21-6S-SE of Hamilton County, 55 miles west of Evansville, Ind., and 90 miles southeast of St. Louis.

Male natives of New Guinea may carry on their waistbands the fur of the flying fox an adornment permitted only to the successful headhunter.

Man Tells Before TV How Wife Died In Car Bomb Blast
WACO, Tex. (P)—A bereaved husband testified in a quivering voice Tuesday in 54th District Court and before a television audience how his wife died in an auto bomb blast.

Harry Weaver, 60, a graying, stocky man, said Harry L. Washburn, the man on trial, was the first suspect he named after "a terrible explosion" killed a wealthy ranchwoman at San Angelo, Tex., last Jan. 19.

Washburn, 39, Houston businessman, is being tried here in what probably is the first murder trial ever televised live. A TV camera in the balcony and microphones at the witness stand and bench record the proceedings for station KWTX-TV here. The station carried the entire proceedings Tuesday.

Spectator benches were only about half-filled during the morning session. Officials said some probably stayed away to watch the trial on their TV sets.

Weaver was the first witness called.

He told of rushing from his mother-in-law's home in San Antonio on Jan. 19 and seeing "an immense cloud of smoke" hanging over the driveway. His wife — "badly mutilated" — was slumped on the front seat of the family car.

"I thought she was dead and I didn't touch her," Weaver said, his voice shaking. He had to be asked to repeat his answers so the microphones could pick them up.

Washburn, neatly dressed in a dark blue suit with blue and white tie, stared without emotion at Weaver, his former father-in-law. Occasionally he looked up at the TV camera. During recesses he talked freely with reporters.

Weaver said he told officers at the death scene about Washburn being the former husband of Mrs. Weaver's daughter, Helen.

On cross-examination he was asked why he named Washburn as a suspect immediately after the explosion.

"For two years I've been afraid of him," he explained.

Washburn was arrested Jan. 29 and has been in jail since without bond. He claims he was 400 miles away in Houston when the bomb exploded.

Recommend Pafco Be Charged With Mrs. Beal's Murder

CHICAGO (P)—A coroner's jury Tuesday recommended that Steve Pafco, 34, be held for grand jury action on a charge of murdering his former landlady.

The victim, Mrs. Ruth Beal, 50, was slain Friday in her home in suburban Harvey.

Pafco, an ex-convict, told police when he surrendered Monday that he was evicted from his room because the landlady had found obscene literature in his suitcase.

He went back to the Beal home Friday to settle a telephone bill. Pafco said, "and she started to raise the roof again." Pafco said he lost his temper and "killed her with my bare hands."

Mrs. Beal was buried Tuesday in Edgewood, a small town in Effingham County, Illinois. Mrs. Beal and her husband, Harry, were born in Edgewood.

Britain Waives Control Of Canals To East Germany

BERLIN (P)—Britain and the Soviet Union have waived control on canal traffic to Berlin but the British announced they still hold the Russians fully responsible for keeping open the waterway lifeline to the isolated city.

In Berlin, Bonn and London, British Foreign Office spokesmen disclosed the Russians have bowed out of the administration of the canal which feeds West Berlin 24 per cent of its total supplies.

They said the British agreed with the Russians to eliminate their signatures from permits issued to about 1,800 barges which ply from the Ruhr and Hamburg to Berlin and back on two waterways.

This means the East German Communist government will handle canal permits and other inland waterway problems through the canal bureau in Magdeburg. The West Germans deal with some paper problems on the subject in Hamburg.

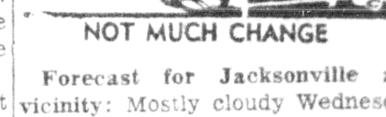

The British, responsible for the canals in the West since 1945 because they lead to what once was the British occupation zone, emphasized that their step is only administrative and does not imply any recognition of the East German government.

GOOD NEWS FOR A CHANGE

In recent months we have become accustomed to gloomy reports from the Middle East, from Egypt to Afghanistan. What a satisfaction then to learn there is now something to be cheerful about in that region.

Britain, Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan, the five nations of the so-called Baghdad pact, have made a start toward setting up a new military, political and economic organization to be called the Middle East Treaty Organization (METO).

In the most practical terms, this means these countries have agreed to fix a new defense line against Communist Russia—the Zagros mountain range stretching across eastern Iraq and western Iran.

Thus the strategic perimeter manned by free nations against the spread of Red tyranny has once more been extended.

The Western arm of the great defense arc is, of course, governed by long-established NATO. On the other side of the world, there is SEATO, though this Asian counterpart is not of the same caliber. No solid military organization defending a clearly marked line is in being.

Nevertheless, the new METO setup can be regarded as a link in this vital arc which now comes close to encompassing the Communist world, China included, on three sides.

The only significant gaps are Afghanistan, India, Burma and Indonesia. Winning the latter three to the Western side seems at this stage an almost impossible task. Afghanistan is something else. But there Russia rather than the West is taking a strong initiative.

Yet this is not the moment to bemoan this situation. We ought instead to savor the good news from Baghdad.

One of the best aspects of the recent successful meeting is that economic development is included among the goals. This region is notoriously poverty-ridden and therefore ripe for the phony blandishments of the Communists on the subject of human betterment.

Making the organization broad enough to embrace economic improvement gives it a healthy, constructive orientation. A common complaint of India and others is that most collaborative effort by the free nations is dominated by sterile military objectives. Certainly this is not so in the case of METO.

The establishment of METO can rightly be hailed as at least a partial antidote for the steady diet of bad news that has been flowing in from the Middle East for so long. And it is fresh notice to the Soviet Union that the West has not really been lulled to sleep by the era of Kremlin smiles.

LUDICROUS LUGGAGE

One of the most mystifying events of the last days of the Geneva conference was Foreign Minister Molotov's comment on return from an interim trip to Moscow that he was bringing "better baggage" back with him.

Since on his first foray to Geneva in late October his suitcases seemed mainly packed with old empty vodka bottles, it was fervently hoped this comment meant he had some new proposals that really might form the basis for an East-West settlement.

Molotov's idea of better luggage turned out to be rather comic, or tragic, depending on the viewpoint. His fresh proposals were if anything worse than the earlier ones. They resembled nothing so much as the famed Bolshevik bomb.

If the Geneva airport officials had had their wits about them, they'd have heard it ticking and have doused Molotov's "better baggage" in water before he ever could deposit it in the conference hall.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — "Have you ever done something in your life for which you can give no good reason?"

This was Imogene Coca's comment on the fact that she gave up a TV contract which would have guaranteed her $100,000 annually for the next nine years.

It happened a couple of months ago, and the wispy Imogene is still not quite sure why she did it. "Everything in my life has been calculated," she observed. "This is the one thing I did that was not reasoned out."

"But I think it must have been right or somebody would have protested. I told my lawyer and my agents my decision and all they said was, 'shouldn't you think it over?' I told him I had thought it over and I wanted out."

"Then they told NBC and the network people said, 'shouldn't she think it over?' They said I had thought it over, and that was all there was. The contract was dissolved."

She has had no regrets. Her earning power will no doubt exceed what NBC would have paid her. She has returned to night clubs, having played the Sahara in Las Vegas and now appearing at the Beverly Hilton. In February she'll do a satire on TV in a spectacular for her old "Show of Show" boss, Max Liebman. She's being sought for her dramatic debut on TV by the Steel Hour and Producer's Showcase.

So don't fret about our Imo: she's doing fine. That wasn't true of her last adventure in TV. When she, Liebman and Sid Caesar split up their Saturday night show, she went to a half-hour format. It died.

Variety is the keynote of her future career. Instead of sticking to TV, she'll dabble in all fields.

Manners Make Friends

When someone brings you a gift, open it immediately. Laying it aside to open after the giver has gone makes it seem as though you aren't very interested in the gift. And, remember, the person who has brought you the gift will probably be watching your face for your first reaction.

So even if it turns out to be a "what-is-it?" object, let nothing but pleased surprise show on your face.

EARLY CINDERELLA

The story of Cinderella goes back at least to the year B. C. 610, in the legend of the Egyptian pharaoh Psammetichus. He ordered the country searched for the owner of a leather sandal, dropped at his feet by an eagle, and made her his queen when he found her.

Lots of people have long playing records. Some of them haven't worked for years.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The Republicans, because of Philip Young and the Democrats, may find it a little embarrassing to go around in the 1956 campaign talking about the number of security risks they fired from the government.

The answer to the question "What is a security risk?" seemed clear enough until Young testified before a Senate subcommittee last week.

A security risk was generally understood to be a person whose continued employment in the government would be a risk to the nation's security.

Young is chairman of the Civil Service Commission, which collects and makes public statistics on the number of people bounced from the government under President Eisenhower's security program.

In that capacity, he of all people might have been expected to know the meaning of the term security risk. But he testified he didn't know the definition of the term, and didn't use it.

If the impression got around in the 1952 campaign that the government under the Democrats was loaded with Communists, the Republicans did their best to foster it. They pleaded for a chance to take over and throw the Reds out.

In April 1953, three months after becoming president, Eisenhower laid down a security program for getting out of the government anyone whose employment was not "consistent with national security."

It provided for firing not only Communists and fellow travelers but others who drank or talked too much, or had other undesirable characteristics. If their agency head decided they were in a position to endanger security.

Loyalty and security cases had been handled under separate programs in the Truman administration.

From time to time thereafter the new administration gave out figures on the number of people fired under this security program. The figures increased by leaps and the Democrats said they were padded.

In the 1954 elections the Republicans — particularly Vice President Nixon — outdid themselves in the claims they made about Reds fired. Nixon said: "We're kicking the Communists and fellow travelers and security risks out of the government . . . by the thousands."

The Democrats cried "hax" and "numbers game." Because their victory in 1954 gave them control of Congress and its investigating committees, they began an investigation of the security program. They repeatedly called on Young to tell what he knew.

Last week Young testified he didn't know the meaning of security risk. He made it clear that instead of saying a man was fired as a security risk, he prefers to say he was "removed as a direct result of an adverse security determination."

Who makes the determination—that is, who decides — a man should be listed as fired under the security program? Young explained: the head of the agency where the man works.

He told the committee the Eisenhower administration has fired 3,685 workers "because of security reasons." But then he explained, after being prodded, that 75 per cent of those people had not been fired on security charges. There was some question about security in their files, he said, but they were sacked on other charges—too much drinking might have been one—which Young said made them unsuitable for government employment.

Did their agency head close out their case by reporting them fired merely because they were unsuitable? No. They were reported as fired under the security program. Did these people know of the derogatory material, involving them in a question of security, that was in their files? Many didn't. So they never had a chance to clear their names although they weren't charged as security risks.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Last word from the doctors is that the most exciting Christmas present Ike and Mamie expect could arrive Dec. 25. It'll be their fourth grandchild. In case you hadn't heard, Barbara, wife of Ike's son John is expecting.

Ike, by the way, gets more and more pleasure from his seven-year-old grandson, David. He tells friends that David is a real "grown-up" companion to him. The girl grandchild is described as "more impish" while David is called "quite serious."

IF CHIEF JUSTICE Earl Warren ever runs for President, it's a cinch he won't be supported by Les Amis d'Escoffier.

They're a select group here who make a major project out of eating fancy food. Other night they tackled a six-course feast prepared by the chef at the Sheraton-Carlton.

Number one rule is that the banquet starts at 7:30 p.m. sharp. That's so each course can be served right on time. Warren was honorary guest, and to everyone's horror he didn't arrive until eight.

Shuddering at the prospect of overdone turtle soup and stale wine, the epicureans rushed the Chief Justice to his place. But even "La Mouselline de Fois Gras au Porto en gelée avec une bonne Salade à la Française," tasted great.

IF SHARING A HUSBAND with another wife is a domestic strain, you'd never know it talking to Alya, charming associate wife of Mohammed Ali, the new Ambassador from Pakistan.

Nobody at a recent party for the pair asked how the other wife was doing, but Alya, the one on deck at the time, appeared to be in top spirits.

She told about the sight-seeing visit of 50 seniors from the exclusive William Penn Charter School in Philadelphia to the embassy the other day.

The receptionist stands behind a high counter, and the first lad to walk in put a dollar down and asked the blushing Pakistani girl there for a gin and tonic.

ALSO AT THE PARTY for the new Pakistan Ambassador was Mrs. Karim, wife of the assistant military attaché, who drew ohs and ahs from all the dames on her exotic sari and white sari. She had it draped around her in typical mid-east fashion. When asked about it Mrs. Karim replied: "It's a sari."

"I bought it at Hecht's basement for four dollars a yard. I pin it to my slip and just wrap it around."

Hecht's is a local department store.

HAVING TROUBLE getting rid of your guests?

Well, you're in the same boat with party givers at the Russian embassy. Except they aren't so subtle about giving it's time to leave.

Other evening at a reception they cleared the house in no time flat after drinking went on three hours past the invitation deadline. Simple.

An official located the embassy switch box and dimmed the lights.

BEFORE BEING DIMMED out, however, we got the latest bulletin on Russian culture.

Composer Dmitri Shostakovich frequently keeps the neighbors in his Moscow apartment awake with his piano playing. Being a good composer doesn't make him a good pianist, apparently.

And blond Mrs. Shostakovich is better known in Russia than her husband. She's a geologist and frequently away on field trips. When she goes Dmitri grieves to neighbors about having to take care of the two teen-age children.

AT A BREAKFAST meeting for women Democrats in Chicago recently, lady orators were subjected to a female ear. They had to give "soft-boiled egg speeches." Three minutes each and timed with an egg timer. They're leaving the hard-boiled speeches to the men.

A Glance Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Creed of Ashland observed their 58th wedding anniversary.

Jacksonville firemen were called to the H. L. Caldwell Engineering company office, 803 West College avenue, to extinguish a blaze in the basement.

Mrs. John J. Lukeman, 1316 West State street, celebrated her 93rd birthday.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller of Jerseyville was burglarized and some valuable jewelry taken.

20 YEARS AGO
Pittsfield voters approved a proposal to establish a gas plant in the city by a vote of 700 to 21.

Dr. S. J. Carter and Dr. S. W. Carter sold their veterinary hospital at Beecher and Sandy street to the Producers Dairy, Inc.

New electrically operated doors were installed at the entrance of the Jacksonville Fire Department. The Jacksonville District Epworth League held a meeting at Grace Methodist church.

50 YEARS AGO
A block system by telegraph between Bloomington and Roodhouse was being installed by the Chicago & Alton Railroad.

J. J. Dreese, a leaf tobacco man from Chicago, was a business visitor in Jacksonville.

A runaway occurred on West Lafayette avenue but no one was hurt. "The Isle of Bong Bong" appeared at the Grand Opera House.

A Cry of Anguish—Anyone Know How to Cook Bear?

My cookbooks have let me down. I can't find in any one I own any tasty recipe for cooking bear meat.

As the wife of one enthusiastic hunter and the mother of another I am used to cooking whatever is brought home. "Don't shoot anything you can't eat" was the first lesson our son was taught after he was taught to handle a gun.

I confess most of what the hunters have brought home from the hill has made good eating. There were pheasants, duck, venison, wild turkey, elk, rabbits and squirrels. Through the years I've cooked them all and usually gladly.

But that bear meat has bothered me. I made the mistake of asking several friends whose husbands are hunters how they cook bear meat.

After groans and sighs of resignation all I have been able to find out from them is that no matter how it was cooked, it always tasted like shoe leather, or let's face it, like aged bear.

IT'S GOT TO COME OUT OF THE FREEZER

This, then, is an appeal for help. If any wife of a hunter knows how to make bear meat taste like something else, will she share her secret formula?

That bear's been shot and the darn thing has to be eaten, even though a hunting companion and not a member of the family pulled the trigger.

It is taking up space in the freezer and has to be cooked.

This is a cry for help from a woman whose menfolk believe that no animal should be killed that can't be eaten but has no intention of putting a roast on the table that tastes like either old bear or an old hunting boot.

Woman's Club To Hear Dr. Baus At Xmas Program

The executive board of the Jacksonville Woman's club met Tuesday morning in the Public Library where the president, Mrs. J. Allen Biggs, conducted the session.

Plans were made for the club to sponsor a float on Saturday, Dec. 17, in the religious parade pageant sponsored by Jacksonville Associated Merchants affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce and the Jacksonville Ministerial Association. The motive is putting Christ back into Christmas.

The club chose as its theme for the float, The Refusal at the Inn. Mrs. Fletcher Blackburn is the chairman of the program and Mrs. M. E. Gilbert, co-chairman. Volunteers from the club are asked to help decorate the float the evening of Friday, Dec. 16, in the Walker Studebaker Agency building.

There were two new members reported in the club, Mrs. Lynn Fox and Mrs. George Kroy. The December meeting of the club will honor the new members at a special tea following the program. Mrs. Earl Davis is in charge of the arrangement for the gesture.

Music for the Christmas program will be furnished by students of the Jacksonville high school under the direction of Donald Lord, vocal instructor.

Dr. Joseph Baus, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will bring a Christmas message to the club for its program with his topic "There's a Song in the Air."

Rev. Baus came to Jacksonville three years ago from Evansville, Ind. and was the first pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the merge move of congregations of the Westminster and the State Street

President Backs Public Support Of TB Seal Sale

President Dwight D. Eisenhower has given his best wishes for the success of the 1955 Christmas Seal Sale to raise funds to fight a disease which is "attacking approximately 100,000 persons a year in the United States."

Mrs. Verne Anderson, Seal Sale chairman of the Morgan County Tuberculosis association, has announced the content of the message, sent by the President from Gettysburg, Pa. to the National Tuberculosis association.

"The Christmas Seal Sale is a forceful reminder that tuberculosis, a preventable disease, is attacking approximately 100,000 persons a year in the United States.

"There are about 1,000,000 persons who have tuberculosis in its active and inactive forms, and many times that number with tuberculosis infection that may eventually lead to disease. We have drugs which help the tuberculosis victim recover, but our goal should be to prevent his becoming a victim in the first place. It is a goal which can be attained with the expenditure of greater effort.

"To the National Tuberculosis association and its affiliates, and all who further the year-round work to combat this disease, I extend congratulations with my best wishes for the success of this year's Christmas Seal campaign."

Dec. 31 Deadline For ACP Program In Morgan County

The final date for completing soil conservation practices under the 1955 Agricultural Conservation Program is Dec. 31, warned Wallace T. Hemmings, office manager, Morgan County A. S. C.

"All of the many practices approved during the year represent good conservation measures," continued Hemmings, "and are projects which will improve our farms and our community. Much of the work has already been accomplished, but there are some approved practices which have not yet been started.

"In these instances we urge that immediate action be taken not only to complete the projects involved, but also to report such completion to this office. All of the materials practices (like limestone and rock phosphate) must be fully accomplished by Dec. 31 in order to earn the cost-sharing assistance which has been approved. For some practices an extension of time may be granted if they are substantially completed by such date. Any questions of this nature should be brought to the attention of our county office personnel.

"In addition to completing practices under the program by the required date, a report of performance must be placed on file by not later than Jan. 13, 1956.

"Some limited funds are still available for offering additional cost-sharing assistance in 1955. Farmers interested in projects like limestone, rock phosphate or brush removal which can be completed by the end of the year should immediately call at our office, to sign a request for ACP assistance."

"Whistling swans, blown off course en route to the South Atlantic for the winter, landed for a rest and food on Lake Sherwood in the Santa Monica Mountains.

Once seen over most of North America, the big swans now breed chiefly in northwest Canada and Alaska. They migrate to the Southern coastal states in winter. Their route ordinarily is far north of here.

The whistling swan is distinguished by a light musical note for a call and sometimes is referred to as a whooping crane.

FREE TRANSPORTATION DETROIT (AP) — The city-picked Detroit Transit says it will pick 18 persons who will ride to and from work free. One month the appointees will drive their own car and the next month will travel by buses.

The reason: To provide the public with specific proof that it is much cheaper and probably faster to ride the bus rather than drive.

U. OF SOUTH CAL ASKS DAMAGES FOR PAINT ON BANDSMEN LOS ANGELES (AP)—The University of Southern California has sent a bill for $583 to its cross-town rival UCLA for damage caused when someone dumped blue paint on USC bandmen during the school's annual football game last month.

The paint was dumped from atop a Coliseum tunnel as the band passed below. Said UCLA Dean of Students Byron Atkinson Monday: "The only clue that UCLA had anything to do with the halitine prank is a Bruin rooters cap."

The Associated Students at UCLA, where school colors are blue and gold, say they'll pay only if proof is given.

MARINE 'WHATSIT' WASHES ONTO SHORE

VENICE, Calif. (AP)—A marine "whatsit" washed ashore Monday. It is 16 feet long, has a head resembling a snake's, a fin tail, and, when it was alive, perhaps a week ago, must have weighed about 800 pounds.

Old-time mariners and lifeguards say they think it is a sea serpent. "I've lived around the ocean for 18 years," said Norman Bishop, former lifeguard, "and I've never seen anything like this thing, whatever it is."

Ex-Con Says Slew Former Landlady Who Put Him Out

CHICAGO (AP)—An ex-convict has admitted slaying his former landlady because "she ran me out when she found some obscene literature in my suitcase," police said.

The body of Mrs. Ruth Beal, 50, was found Friday in the bedroom of her suburban Harvey home by her husband, Harry, also 50.

Capt. Michael Spatz said Steve Pafco, 34, walked into a South Side Chicago police station Monday and said:

"I'm Steve Pafco, the man you're looking for."

Spatz said Pafco, an ex-convict, related:

"I went back there to pay for a telephone bill I owed and she started to raise the roof with me again. She kept it up until I lost my temper. I didn't use anything on her but my hands. I killed her with my bare hands. I was so mad I even ripped off her clothes. I ripped them to shreds and started to wreck the house. When I calmed down I got on out of there as fast as I could."

Pafco was held without charge pending further questioning.

Russ Protest But Pay Back Taxes On New York Estates

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—The Russian government has paid, under protest, delinquent taxes on two Long Island estates used by its diplomatic staffs. The tax bill totaled $24,272.

With checks for this sum, the Russians Monday, sent Nassau County Treasurer H. Bogart Seaman letters saying they would ask United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld "to obtain from the appropriate authorities of the United States recognition that the property is exempt from taxation."

The Russians have constantly objected to paying taxes on their Long Island properties. They should be exempt, the Russians claim, under terms of the United Nations Charter and the headquarters agreement between the United States and the United Nations.

Nassau County and the communities of Glen Cove and Upper Brookville, where the estates are located, have refused to recognize the Russian claims.

Taxes on some other Long Island properties occupied by the Russians are delinquent.

32 Of 140,000 Die In U. S. Rehearsal For A-War Defense

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—Exercise Sagebrush, America's military rehearsal for an atomic war defense, killed 32 of the 140,000 servicemen taking part in the huge maneuvers.

Fighting in this country's biggest war games since World War II ended Sunday night. The Army and Air Force is moving most of the 110,000 soldiers and 30,000 airmen to their regular bases.

The Army said most deaths came from car, truck and tank accidents.

Umpires decided Sunday night that the U. S. troops in Exercise Sagebrush had successfully repulsed an invasion by "aggressor" forces. This ended the fighting phase of the maneuvers, which took place on seven million acres in western Louisiana.

UNDERGROUND BLAST ENLIVEN'S DETROIT AIR DEFENSE TEST

DETROIT (AP)—While North America was alerted in a test of air defenses Monday night, it looked on Detroit's Woodward Avenue as if an enemy were attacking from underground.

Explosions rattled this shopping main stem over a six-mile stretch. Manhole covers were flung into the air, some as high as 20 feet, and roaring flames flashed from the uncovered manhole mouths.

One manhole cover hit a passing automobile underneath and another narrowly missed a streetcar, but no one was injured.

Police said the explosions were caused by an accumulation of leaking gas in sewers and conduits, set off by a short circuit in an underground electric line.

Cabin Built In 1835 Survives 1955 Gales

BY ARTHUR THATCHER
Journal Courier Correspondent
JERSEYVILLE — The old log cabins of the original settlers of Jersey county have about passed completely from this section of the "American Scene." One by one the log houses have been pulled down and the logs which remained solid utilized for various purposes. One of the few remaining cabins still stands in the Quarry Township locality on land owned by Bert Dabbs of that vicinity. Dabbs was a Jerseyville visitor Saturday afternoon and reported that one of the recent severe storm which swept the Jersey county locality committed considerable damage to the clap board roof of the old cabin, and they have been considering pulling the building down.

The cabin stands up one of the hollows about a quarter of a mile from the spot where stands the last of the witness trees of Jersey county. The witness tree is also on the Dabbs land and was first described in the survey made of that locality in 1832.

According to Dabbs, the cabin was built in 1835 by a pioneer of the vicinity named Kaslick. The early pioneers usually located their cabins close to a spring and this accounted for so many of the early homes being hidden a considerable distance from the mouth of the hollow where water was usually available.

The Kaslick cabin has one large room downstairs, with an overhead loft divided into two compartments. The loft was the sleeping quarters for a majority of the pioneer families that occupied the place. The downstairs has a large fireplace. The stones from which it is fashioned were evidently gathered from adjacent creek beds and the fireplace is typical of the early Illinois era. Both heat for cooking and warming the downstairs was obtained from the fire built in the fireplace.

The locality where Kaslick built his cabin was one in which the early settlers congregated. Wood and water were two requisites, and the pioneer built where they could find these two basic items. The fertile lands were the last to be settled in this area.

Dabbs reported Saturday that the aged witness tree survived the rough gales of the past summer and early autumn. This tree was first mentioned in a plat of the locality after a survey made in 1832. Since the Marquette Park established, a number of recent surveys have been made starting from the corner stone not far from the base of the old tree. When first mentioned in the 1832 survey the witness tree was described as then having a diameter of eight inches. Since that time the oak has grown to a diameter of more than five feet.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one. —Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sacker base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance and was originated by Houbigant. Try their Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.85 plus tax at Long's Pharmacy.

OMAHA (AP) — An eighth grade teacher summoned one of her pupils to her desk to tell him his essay was good but his penmanship terrible.

The next day the boy brought a postcard sent him by his father, who was away from home, and pointed out "I write as good as he does."

The teacher suggested he not follow too closely in his father's footsteps.

NO BRUSH-UP

CARMEL, Calif., P. — Theater manager Ray Thome put up a blank canvas with brushes and oil paints nearby and a note asking Carmel residents to try their hand at painting during breaks at the movie house.

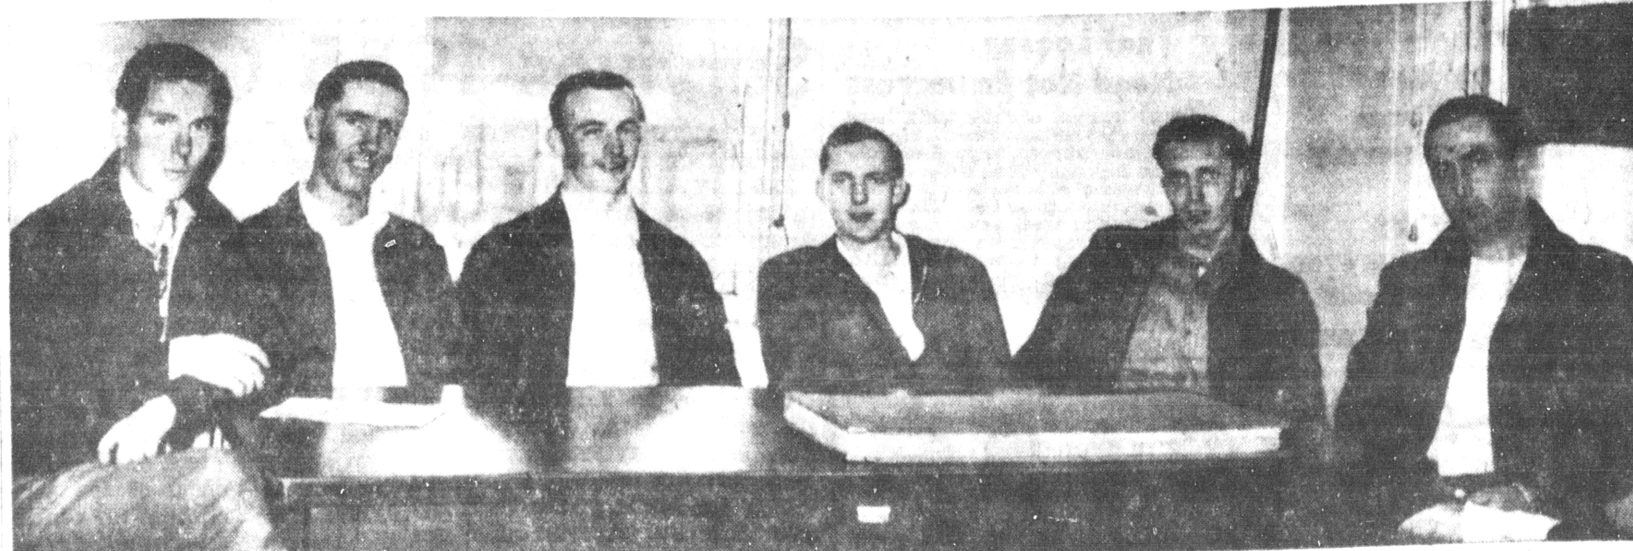

After a few weeks, with the canvas full of varied designs, Thome decided to enter the painting in a contest — just for laughs.

A few weeks later, to his amazement, he was told the painting won third prize in a contest and would be hung in a San Francisco art gallery.

Dope Is Costing Americans About 35 Million Year

Editor's Note — By the most conservative estimate, dope is costing Americans something like 350 million dollars a year. But that doesn't include the deadly tally in shattered, twisted lives, in crime associated with the craving for drugs. Here's the story behind plans for a congressional probe of the whole problem, first in a series of three stories.

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Federal agents were puzzled. They had reason to suspect that Pon Wai, smiling, 64-year-old operator of the Fragrant Flower Garden Shop in San Francisco's Chinatown, was peddling the white death called heroin.

But how?

Day after day, U. S. Treasury agents watched Pon Wai delicately moving among his flowers. Customers were few. None were known addicts. None was of a type to arouse suspicion.

Pon Wai knew he was being watched. He nodded and smiled blandly at the agents as they passed his shop. Occasionally, in plain view of the T-men, he wrapped an expensive orchid corsage or a dozen roses and summoned a commercial messenger boy to deliver the package.

Agents stopped the messengers and searched them. Nothing. They examined the packages. Nothing.

One morning, as fog swirled through Chinatown, the agents again went through the routine of intercepting a messenger and examining the box of flowers.

"Roses, nothing but roses," one of the federal men growled. Then he gave a low whistle.

Tiny flecks of white powder had spilled down the stem of one of the roses. Cunningly attached to the stem was a thin green capsule. The T-man wet his finger, touched it to the power, tasted it and grimaced.

"Heroin—pure heroin. Let's go."

Thus, through long surveillance, federal operatives found the evidence needed to arrest Pon Wai and eight confederates in a multi-million-dollar narcotics ring that had been smuggling heroin into the United States from Red China.

Locked in a constant battle of wits with international dope smugglers, agents of the Federal Narcotics Bureau and the U. S. Customs Service share the almost impossible task of trying to keep illicit drugs—opium, heroin, cocaine, morphine and marijuana—out of this country.

Drug addiction is a blight that the government estimates costs 350 million dollars a year, while twisting and wrecking the lives of thousands of the victims it has "hooked."

Harry J. Anslinger, chief of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, calls the habit "murder on the installment plan." It ravages body and soul, reducing its victims to a zombie-like existence of living death. That's the human side.

Financially, it is a devastating drain on the nation's economy.

Here's why: The narcotics bureau estimates that the country has 60,000 addicts—a figure that other sources say is far too low. Even using the government's figure, this still adds up to a whopping 330 million dollars a year just to buy drugs.

That's because federal authorities say it costs an addict $15 to $60 a day to satisfy his craving, or a minimum of around $5,500 a year. But this isn't the whole story.

The average addict can't hold a job, particularly one that pays that kind of money. So he steals. And since a thief seldom gets more than a quarter of the value of stolen goods when he sells it, it means that the theft bill tops 1 1/2 billion dollars every year.

Dope is cheap—to start with. U. S. Customs Commissioner Ralph Kelly says an ounce of 100 per cent pure heroin, can be purchased in Hong Kong for $60. One ounce contains 437 1/2 grains. But by the time it reaches the addict, it may have been cut to 5 per cent purity, or one twentieth its original strength.

For one grain of this diluted heroin, the addict pays $1 in Washington, D. C. As Kelly says:

"That means the original ounce of heroin, costing $60 in Hong Kong, will be sold to addicts in Washington for $9,750—a tidy profit of 14,600 per cent."

Alarmed by the threat and scope of the illicit drug traffic, Congress will take a close look at the problem when legislators return to the capital in January. There is unanimous agreement that something must be done to stop the cancer from spreading, particularly among juveniles.

WHAT PRICE SPEED?
DETROIT (AP)—The 33.9-mile stretch of expressway from downtown Detroit to Willow Run Airport is a veritable speedway.

As an experiment, one car hit it up to 92 miles per hour and saved every minute possible. Another traveled at normal speeds.

The time saved by speeding: 10 minutes.

SLEEPER TIME
WALHALLA, S. C. (AP)—The Rev. Eugene Mason, baby sitting with his 1 1/2-year-old son, lay down by the youngster in an effort to coax him to sleep.

But it was the minister who fell asleep. He was awakened some time later by the sharp ringing of the telephone.

It was a neighbor calling to report that the boy had wandered to his seeking excitement.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

It hardly seems reasonable that the Communists, merely for the sake of face, would once more subject themselves to the risks and subsequent political beating they took because of the 1948 Berlin blockade.

Nor does it seem reasonable that the Allies should let such a situation develop again without the sternest warning that they will not let down this time any more than they did then.

A good many observers believed in 1948 that the Allies could have avoided the long blockade and the accompanying expensive airlift by a firm stand at the very beginning.

That situation developed until there was a very great fear among Europeans that it might produce a war.

Russian fighter planes patrolled the edges of a very narrow corridor through which American planes carried the necessities of life, especially coal, to West Berlin. American airmen, many of them veterans of the wartime "Hump" operation to China, performed a job which amazed the world.

The Russians finally had to give up. Recently the Russians have "recognized" the satellite Communist government of East Germany and demanded that the West Germans negotiate with it on the subject of reunification. The idea, of course, is to work the Germans into a position where reunification will depend on establishment of an all-German government through coalition, the normal Communist weapon of domination. The Allies and the West Germans refused.

Now, by threatening to cut off West Berlin's coal supply once more, through refusal of barge transit permits, the Reds are trying to get recognition through negotiation in another field.

This is being accompanied by another tactic, a Red claim that four-power occupation of Berlin no longer exists, in an effort to squeeze the Allies out of the negotiating picture.

In some ways a new Berlin blockade would be more difficult than the one of 1948. At that time the principal Allied problem was to keep West Berlin supplied. The airlift was primarily a one-way job.

Today there is the problem of maintaining contact between West Berlin's resurgent industry and its West German customers. Cessation of this business would create an employment problem in the city.

Whether the Reds actually have a blockade in mind, they know that the mere threat can be disruptive in this situation. They can also hope to create a demand from business that Bonn accept the situation and begin negotiations.

Right now Bonn seems able to withstand the pressure.

Men's Club At New Berlin Has New Officers

NEW BERLIN—The Men's Community club met in the exposition building at the county fair grounds, and elected the following new officers: Bernard Reed, president; William Bird, vice president; Roland Amrhein, secretary; and James Hitt, treasurer. The president appointed a committee for the Christmas party for the children of the community, to be held Saturday, Dec. 17. An oyster stew will be served.

The Auxiliary of American Legion Post 743 will meet in the Community Room at the high school on Tuesday evening, Dec. 6.

The second of the series of immunization shots for whooping cough, tetanus and diphtheria will be administered Thursday morning, Dec. 8 in the Community Room at the high school. This program is sponsored by the New Berlin Woman's Club in co-operation with the local physician, Dr. G. H. Wicherman, and the Visiting Nurse Association of Sangamon county.

And so does the thrill
- with Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflo!

WITH ALL the big excitement of Buick's 1956 styling and power and ride and handling—it's easy to overlook this fact:

Gas mileage in the '56 Buicks takes a big step upward.

One reason, of course, is the new power plant itself.

Every new Buick cradles an advanced 322-cubic-inch V8 engine with the highest horsepower, Series for Series, in all Buick history. Yet every engine delivers more efficiency, and more usable power to the rear wheels—because each one has a new double "Y" manifold, and a new high in compression ratio.

But the major reason for the happy news in gas mileage—and for the new step-up in safety and thrills—is Buick's latest version of Variable Pitch Dynaflo.

In this airplane-principled transmission, you always had a gas-saving cruising range—and, at a switch of the pitch, a full-power getaway range.

Now Buick engineers have brought to this cruising range what they call "double regeneration." It simply means a new way to make flowing oil add to its own velocity to build up driving force.

Get 4-Season Comfort in your new Buick with FRIGIDAIRE CONDITIONING
—now at a new low price

So now, you merely nudge the pedal to part throttle and get new breakaway getaway. And since you get this quicker, safer response in your normal cruising range—where you don't use full power—you get plenty more miles from every tankful of gas.

But when you do need sudden safety-surge for emergencies, you just floor the pedal to switch the pitch. Instantly, you're at full-power acceleration—and it's the most thrilling safety measure in the land.

How about coming in to try the most modern transmission yet? The absolute smoothness of this new Dynaflo is worth a visit in itself. So you can be sure you're in for a wealth of wonderful surprises—for that's just the start of the best Buick yet. Can you make it this week?

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

It's the '56 Buick—

Best Buick yet

A Good Thing In A Larger Package Miss Wood Likes Women's Sizes

Though she could wear misses' sizes if she tried, Peggy Wood is a woman who finds better fit in the women's department. She feels dress for evening. A basic black dress with a flared skirt (center) is good for daytime. The favorite V-neckline (right) is becoming in emerald satin. All by Lane Bryant.

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Dress size is a tough problem. There are women who can fit with equal ease into misses', juniors' and women's sizes. Some women with this kind of adaptable figure choose to alternate departments. Others jump from one to another but not willingly.

Not so Peggy Wood. This warm, gracious television actress passes by the misses' sizes, even though she could fit into them. She has found that her shape, while it fits into the miss models, is not flattered by their shape and proportions.

She likes clothes whose proportions are good for her and she has found it pays off. "I'd rather wear a size 38 and have people think I'm a 16 than the awful opposite." This is a good point for mature women to remember. However, youthful they are, a dress with straining seams gives lie to the illusion.

Miss Wood finds an additional bonus in shopping in the women's sizes. The designers in this field are specialists in flattering the women who fit their sizes.

Lovely V-necks, soft draping, plus the kindly flared and full skirts are easily found in women's departments. The famous designer who did a group of clothes (under $10 each) for Miss Wood has worked every piece of figure fabric and style witchery to make them flatter.

This is the kind of loving care that the misses' sizes don't need or want. And it's lavished by this designer, whose name was made by her kind of cleverness, on the women's sizes.

Illini Open Season With 107-75 Win Over Butler

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (P) — Illinois' highly regarded basketball team opened the season Tuesday with a record-breaking 107-75 victory over Butler. Harv Schmidt and Capt. Paul Judson led the Big Ten team's attack with 22 points each.

The new mark blotted out 104 points scored by the Illini against Northwestern last year.

Illinois took a commanding 20-5 lead in the first five minutes, then made it 33-17 before Coach Harry Combes let in the reserves.

The move proved nearly fatal as Butler pulled to within 50-44 at halftime.

Again the regulars were sent in but Butler closed the margin to 58-54 in the early minutes of the second half before Illini again got started.

The Illini slammed in 29 points while Butler was making 5 and grabbed an 85-59 lead.

Wally Cox kept Butler in the game until Illinois' big spurt by scoring 18 of his 19 points as Butler crept within four points of the Illini.

'The Flying Dutchman' Honus Wagner Expires Tuesday In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (P) — Time ran out for Honus Wagner Tuesday, and the baseball world mourned one of its all-time great stars.

The bandy-legged, broad-shouldered Honus died quietly in his sleep at the modest home in suburban Carnegie where he had been confined for months by the illness of old age. He was 81.

Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Friday from the Beinhauer Funeral Home, 2630 W. Liberty Ave.

Tuesday night, as the first of the baseball faithful and his legion of friends began filing past his bier, tributes of tribute and regret at Wagner's passing came from many of the newer generation of the sport.

Wagner "always was a great credit to baseball," said Commissioner Ford Frick.

"His feats will live forever. His death is a great loss to the game."

The former great Pittsburgh Pirate shortstop indeed had left his mark on the sport that was his love and all his life. Still written in the record books are many of his accomplishments, likely to stand for years or maybe so long as baseball is played.

Honus, who ended his career as a major league batter and fielder in 1917, was one of the first choices for the sport's Hall of Fame 19 years later.

Playing in the era of a "dead" ball and great pitchers who threw spitballs, "shine" balls and other deliveries now barred, he led the National League in batting eight years, compiled a lifetime .329 average and never fell below the magic .300 mark in 17 successive major league seasons.

He played 100 or more games for 19 years in succession, owns 16,421 times at bat, 1,740 runs

1955 Champion Nashua Will Go To Highest Bidder

NEW YORK (P) — Executors of the estate of William Woodward Jr. announced Tuesday that Nashua, the 3-year-old champion of 1955, and other horses of the Belair stud would be sold to the highest bidder.

The sale of the Belair Stable, one of the most prominent in the United States, has been rumored since the death of Woodward, Oct. 30.

The executors, the Hanover Bank and John W. Ludewig, called for sealed bids to be received not later than 11 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 15, 1955.

There have been various estimates as to the value of Nashua, who is the second biggest money winning horse in the world. Nashua earned $752,550 by winning 10 or 12 races this year—the most ever picked up by a thoroughbred in one season. His total earnings are $2,945,415 and he stands second to Citation, who retired with $1,085,760.

Nashua is now at the Claiborne Farm, Paris, Ky., until the estate is settled.

Woodward was killed Oct. 30 by a shotgun blast fired by his wife when they were investigating a possible prowler in their home at Oyster Bay, N.Y.

Big Ten Will Try To Solve NCAA TV Problem At Iowa

CHICAGO (P) — The Big Ten, while expecting to reaffirm its stand favoring the NCAA regional television program of 1955, has a sticky problem to try to solve at its winter meetings the next four days.

Special study by the conference TV Committee will be given to the "no man's TV land" situation in the State of Iowa.

The state, under NCAA regulations, is not included in the 4th District to which the rest of the Big Ten and Notre Dame belong.

Regional telecasts of Big Ten games, restricted to geographical NCAA borders, were not beamed in Iowa on a statewide basis. The situation led to one Iowa station "pirating" a telecast of the Hawkeyes' game at Iowa City, Iowa.

Another problem includes restrictions which prevent the televising of certain key games which were sellouts.

The Big Ten had a full five-game regional television program this fall and Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson has indicated that the NCAA combination plan generally worked out satisfactorily.

But the Iowa problem, which had drawn complaints from University of Iowa officials and state politicians, still looms.

I.C. Blueboys Travel To Culver Stockton

Al Miller's Blueboys play three games away from home this week in preparation for their Invitational tournament December 17. The first foe will be Culver Stockton at Canton, Missouri tonight.

The Wildcats and I.C. split one game apiece last season. The Millermen won 92-75 in the first game and Culver Stockton took the second 57-41. The probable lineup for I.C. will find Curfman and Bonds at forward, Harrell at center and Merris and Barnes handling the guard positions.

Thursday night the Blueboys tangle with Monmouth at Monmouth, Illinois in a non conference tilt.

Darryl Nortrup in Lineup For CS
The Culver-Stockton Wildcats, under the guidance of veteran mentor W. A. "Bill" Herington are wading into a tough twenty-six game schedule this year, which includes a road trip through the southern states, in addition to a tournament at Hammond, Louisiana.

Primarily a young and inexperienced team last year, this year's Wildcats are older and have the added height which was missing on the previous squad. Veteran letterman Darryl Nortrup, junior forward from Mercedia, Ill., is back in action after a two-year hitch in the army, and several valuable freshmen cagers have been added.

Andy Balazs, 6'5" freshmen center, Hammond, Ind., shows a great deal of promise and is fast learning the play pattern used by Coach Herington.

Dave Marr, Steger, Ill., phenomenal freshman forward last year is showing his scoring ability already this season. As a freshman, Marr tied the school record for most points in a single game set in 1946. In addition, the diminutive forward also set a new mark for season scoring by freshmen as piled up a 366 point total — in spite of the fact that an injured ankle sidelined him for five games.

In the back court, Herington has two steady sophomore performers in the persons of Frank Nardi, Chicago Heights, Ill., and Dean Jensen, Athens, Ill. Both guards are outstanding defensively and pack a potent scoring punch as well.

Dick Wilson, 6'1" forward from Winston-Salem, N. C., turned in good performances for the Wildcats last year but has seen only limited action in early season play because of ailing feet.

Among the freshmen who will provide the Wildcat Varsity with valuable reserve strength are: Don VanMeter, listed as five feet, twenty-one inches, of Gary, Ind.; Rich Russack, 5'11" guard from Whiting, Ind.; Virgil Zuspahn, 5'10" guard and Walter Richardson, 6'2" from Lewistown, Mo.; and Joe Dewees, 6'2" guard of Her- rington, Ill.

There are no seniors on this year's squad, and only one junior, Darryl Nortrup. Speed, rebounding strength and Herington's intricate offensive pattern will be the backbone of the Wildcat attack this year.

Bobo Practices Lifting With

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Late selling of convertibles which partially erased earlier gains resulted in a mixed bond market Tuesday.

U. S. Treasury obligations declined in light trading in the over-the-counter market.

Corporate volume increased to $4,850,000 par value from $4,430,000 Monday.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Late selling spelled trouble for the stock market Tuesday, and it was able to hold to only a shred of its early advantage.

The steel, motor and oil were in the forefront of the early advance, but at the close the motor was lower and the other two divisions were mixed.

In the late afternoon, there was a rally in aircraft that sent them ahead strongly. The rise came while budget planners in Gettysburg and Washington were stressing defense spending as a major budget item.

All gains, however, were cut back by profit taking. The rise at the finish amounted to $1 to $2 more while losses frequently went to $1 or beyond.

The day as a whole represented a minor development in the strong forward movement that has been going on since Oct. 11 when the market hit bottom in the Eisenhower fear attack reaction.

The Associated Press average of 50 stocks measured the situation with a good degree of accuracy. Monday the average was up $1.00 at $181.50, equal to the old record high set Sept. 23, and at noon it added another 50 cents, but at the finish it was unchanged at $181.50.

Volume came to 2,540,000 shares as against 2,440,000 shares traded Monday.

The American Stock Exchange was mostly higher on volume of 970,000 shares, compared with 1,200,000 Monday.

WHEAT ONLY GRAIN MAKING GAINS

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat continued to forge ahead on the Board of Trade Tuesday but it was the only grain so doing.

Other cereals firmed early and then ran into profit taking. They finished with a mixture of small gains and losses. The trading pace slackened from the previous session.

Wheat closed 1/2-1 1/2 higher, corn 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, oats 3/4 lower to 1/2 higher, soybeans 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, and lard 7 to 18 cents a hundred pounds lower.

In back of the upturn in old crop wheat futures was a continuing firm demand for the cash grain. No. 2 hard wheat was quoted at a premium of 5 to 5 1/2 cents over the price of the December future.

The prospect of a pickup in exports also aided wheat. India asked for offers on one million bushels. Japan for offers on five million bushels and Formosa for offers on 1 1/2 million bushels. Other countries also are expected to be in the market.

Much of the southern Great Plains still needs moisture, according to the weekly Weather Bureau crop report. This area has lacked significant precipitation for two months. The bureau said, "Much soil is now loose and susceptible to erosive wind damage."

There was nothing in the news to influence soybeans. Both cash bean oil and bean meal sold at unchanged quotations. Traders were expecting a forthcoming report on soybeans placed under government loan to show a sharp boost in importings this year as compared with last year.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Khrushchev Includes Churchill In Renewal Of Barrage At West

Churchill disclosed in a speech at Woodford, England, Nov. 23, 1954 that he had sent such an order to Montgomery. Later in the House of Commons the then Prime Minister explained:

"In those days of victory, the thought which filled my mind was that all the efforts we had made to free Europe from a totalitarian regime of one kind might go for naught if we allowed so much of Europe to fall into the grip of another totalitarian regime from the East."

Winding up a week's tour of Burma with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Khrushchev addressed an audience of 3,000, mostly women, in Rangoon's City Hall. The rally was sponsored by the ruling AFPFL (Anti Fascist People's Freedom League) party. The party's president, Burmese Premier U Nu presided.

Khrushchev blamed "colonizers" for bloodshed in Korea and Indo-

China, and turning to the United States, the Russian visitor asked: "Why have American troops occupied the Island of Taiwan (Formosa) and other nearby islands which are part of the lawful territory of the (Communist) Chinese People's Republic?"

"Why do they prevent the Chinese people from making a complete reunification of their lands?" Khrushchev said it was "a crying injustice" that six years after the Red Chinese regime was established at Peking, Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists were still "trying" to represent the Chinese people.

In a pointed reference to the United States, he "condemned" the policy of certain farm surplus countries which he said were trying to take advantage of Burma. He assured the Burmese that Russia, although not a purchaser of rice in quantity, would do everything possible to buy more Burmese rice of which there is large surplus.

"We need more, not less, participation by working men and women in American political affairs," Harriman said.

Secretary Mitchell noted that the AFL-CIO leaders have said they intend to keep their members informed politically but will not try to control their votes. No one can object to that, Mitchell said.

The secretary also said organized labor has a duty and responsibility to speak out in politics with a "loud and clear" voice. He said he expected the AFL-CIO to support the administration's labor policies.

In Washington, Nixon had no comment on reports he has informed friends he has no intention of entering next year's presidential preference primaries, even if Eisenhower doesn't try for another term.

Physician To Be Arraigned For Murder Dec. 7

CHICAGO (AP)—A 43-year-old physician is to be arraigned Wednesday on a charge of murder in the death of his 37-year-old wife whom he admits beating after giving her a sedative, nembuto.

The physicians, Dr. Robert H. Todd, did not testify Monday at the inquest into the death of his wife, Hazel, whose body was found in a bedroom of their Georgian-style home in suburban Skokie Saturday night.

One of the witnesses, Diane Dinsmore, 1

BY ROBERT CARSE

WHERE was a young maple tree in full leaf at the end of the lane. It gave shade against the sun and Jered Naish tied the horse to it after he and Phoebe got down from the carriage. His need to be alone with her had made him suggest that they drive out from Salem
this afternoon, and she wasn't dressed for a walk on the beach. But she had already started through the crab grass and he followed.

Phoebe wore the sort of dress that was correct to receive him in her father's garden. It was, because of the almost unseason-
al June heat, of thin mousseline de soie, emerald in shade.

"Slow up," he said; he wanted to see her turn and smile. "You walk too fast for a sailor."
"Shall I haul you, slow-poke?"
She held out a hand to him, and he laughed aloud out of sheer joy.

"We're a prim couple to pass
as beachcombers," he said.
"You're right," she said. "Wait,
Jerry, while I take off my slippers and stockings."

"She stripped the stockings and she put them and the slippers in his coat pockets without word.
His temptation was to seize her,
to kiss her, the longing of the year of absence suddenly dominant. But hold on, man. You have time."

They walked the sand close to the water's edge. "You're still prim, Captain. Won't you join me at a bit of paddle foot?"

He bent down at once and slid out of his elastic-sided gaiters, his socks, rolled up his trousers.

"You love me?" she said softly.
"I adore you," he said and rose and took her by the shoulders.

"Darling, darling," she whispered. She walked on down the beach.

He hurried along the beach to Phoebe. She stood holding a gray, marvelously smooth piece of driftwood. "Look, Jerry," she said. "From where do you think it's come?"

He jerked around to stare at the horizon. "Out there, somewhere." But on the horizon, illuminated clearly in the constant glow, he saw a ship's sails.

He recognized them, and the masts and the hull. The hatred left him, replaced by pride.

"She's the Bantu," he said.
"Sailed a week ahead of us from Shanghai."

PHOEBE lightly clasped his arm. She had dropped the piece of driftwood to the sand. "Men like you," she said, "have brought the two halves of the world together."

"I don't agree," he said stubbornly.

"Look at my dress," she said.
"Even your coat. The Oriental fashion's strong in both of them, and has held Salem for 40 years.
Your sailors have carried the East to us in your ships."

He had noticed before that she was dressed in Chinese silk. He had bought the stuff at Whang-
poo. Silks, spices, teas, jade, ivory, precious woods. The ships that had sailed those cargoes had given Salem its wealth and he was the master of one of the best of them.

Naish kissed her. "You're sure," he said, "the marriage

Ships had given Salem its wealth and he was master of the best of them.

will come off without any flipflop."

"Three weeks from tomorrow,
dear heart," she said. "The only thing that's delayed it has been mother's sickness." She smoothed her hands down his back and then opened her mouth from him.

"No more of this. I simply can't stand it, Jerry. Let's get on home. And do remember that you've been back just four days and propose to be around quite some time before you go to sea
again."

"Very well," he said. Still,
when they were in the carriage and riding in along the Neck towards the white town, magenta-shaded now in the advance of the dusk, he let himself express his most secret thought. "You shouldn't be marrying a sailor."

"Jered, Jered," she said, "the sea's your trade."

"But ever since I've been home," he said, "all I've heard is how trade has spread inland.

The Massachusetts coast began to be forgotten after Mr. Jefferson's war. Half the lads who went to school with me have become lawyers or engineers, not sailors."

"Father told me that you cleared an average of $24 a cargo ton on your voyage. You're ashamed of that?"

"No, I can't be, in honesty."

THEY were turning into Chestnut Street towards her home and he felt an odd stifled sensation, people appeared to watch them from every doorway. Yet he was aware that he must finish this
H. checked the horse's trot at the stable gate and said quietly.
"Then I promise you that I'll retire by 30. Other men have."

"You will," she said, and squeezed his fingers as she stepped down onto the carriage
block. "I have no doubt at all.
Don't be long in the stable,
though. You're invited to supper and I'll make you a drink first."

Despite his conscious intention,
he slowed on the garden lawn in back of the house after he had left the horse and carriage with the coachman. A pastel spread of shadows was drawn over it and it had lost the precise, formal contour it possessed in the daytime.

It was here, he remembered, that Phoebe had brought him the first night he met her in the role of a grown young lady. That had been at a reception at Hamilton Hall. He'd been 18 and newly second mate in the brig
George and she a couple of months over 17. Fresh in from Calcutta, he had made a good bit of a fool out of himself at the reception. He had asked her to dance a polka with him, immediately and clumsily trod upon the hem of her frock and ripped a great hunk loose from it.

But Phoebe had marvellously responded. "I think I should like a breath of air," she told him.
"Do walk out with me, Mr. Second Mate."

When they reached the garden, he was trembling sober. "Thank you ever so much," he said in a choked voice. "You're more than nice, in fact downright decent.
I've wrecked your frock and your evening, too."

"Don't be silly," she said. "I'll hop in the kitchen and get us

some tea, then you can tell me
all about Calcutta, the burning ghats and the rest."

When she came back and they had drunk the tea, he told her very simply that he loved her.

"Could you love me?" he said.
"Yes," she said; "oh, yes, Jered." They went in and sat upon the gazebo bench until an upstairs window rattled and she heard her mother's cough.

Four years, Jered Naish thought. From second mate of the George to master in the Mercury. A long haul, but Phoebe's beep with you all the way.

THE house impressed him as it always did when he entered it.
He halted inside the all Palladian window that opened upon the garden and looked around him
while from the hall Phoebe called back that she would be with him directly with his drink.
The place was one of a number built for the Salem wealthy by Samuel McIntire in the last few years. It was of Flemish-laid brick in contrast to the old style of white clapboard. The interior contained many family pieces very much identical to those in his own home.

Capt. Sam Proctor and his father had been partners for some years. Yet Phoebe's father wasn't the kind to spend anything except a fractional whack
of what he owned upon a house.

For certain, Captain Sam was by a lot the richer of the two in order to spread himself like this.
Phoebe came with a tray that bore rum and Madeira. He was slightly surprised, yet pleased when she poured some of the Madeira for herself. "To us," she said.

"To you," he said, "my darling."

Irene Mitchell Of JHS Accorded National Honor

A Jacksonville high school senior, Irene Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. Welby Pierce, 510 North Prairie street and Arthur Mitchell of this city, has received national recognition for skill, leadership and reputable achievements beyond her own local area by being listed in the 1956 Library Edition of "Who's Who in Baton Twirling."

Miss Mitchell, who has been a member of the band for six years, was selected by the officials of the National Baton Twirling Association, Janesville, Wis., in conjunction with the editors of the nationally circulated Drum Major magazine as one of the 800 outstanding young men and women in the twirling field. This achievement is even greater when figures show more than 130,000 twirlers are active in the United States today.

The 300 page book contains pictures and biographical histories of America's greatest twirling stars; the story of the evolution of the baton and twirling art and interesting informative reference material.

This year's edition will be distributed to leading public and school libraries across the country.

The honor of the selection can be better exemplified by J. Edgar Hoover when he said, "The knowledge that you young people are directing your energies and talents along such wholesome lines is very reassuring."

Mail early. The earlier gifts and cards are mailed, the more the post office's work load is spread out, ensuring better delivery.

Jacksonville's commercial area will be expanded in two locations as the result of ordinances given first reading by the council Monday night. One piece of property which will be shifted from residential to commercial zone is situated at the northeast corner of South Main and Bissell streets; the other is the block fronting South Church street, between Morgan street and College avenue.

Ordinances were read by City Attorney Bellanti after the council received a report from the Plan Commission recommending zoning changes.

The Plan Commission announced that on Dec. 1 it conducted a hearing on a petition by James Subblefield et al., and Joseph E. Doyle, et al. asking reclassification to Class E Commercial of property, part of which is now zoned Class B Residential and part of which is zoned Class D Multiple Dwelling.

The property is located between South Main and Bibbs streets immediately north of Bissell street and consists of 246 feet frontage on South Main and a similar amount on Bibbs street. After consideration of the area in which the property is situated and taking into account the interest of property on Bibbs street, the Plan Commission recommended that the petition be granted as to the west 180 feet and nine inches, and denied as to the remainder.

First reading was given the ordinances after motions by Aldermen Sims and Fitzsimmons.

South Church Zone Change
Change from Class D Multiple Dwelling to Class E Commercial of all property lying east of South Church street between West Morgan street and College avenue which is not already zoned for commercial use was sought in a petition signed by several of property owners. This property consists of six houses fronting on South Church and two houses on West College.

"All of the property owners whose property is included in the area sought to be rezoned signed the petition," the Plan Commission said. No persons appeared at the hearing in opposition and no objections were on file.

Alderman Sheerin moved, seconded by Alderman Souza, that the ordinance authorizing the change in classification be read.

The light committee was given power to act on the matter of an agreement with the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. for use of 35 poles on Mound avenue, on motion of Alderman DeFrate, seconded by Alderman McHatton. The telephone company and city power department has found mutual advantage in using the same poles at this point, with the city taking over the right-of-way of the line.

Clerk Collects $7,892.27
City Clerk John Phillips reported receipts of $7,892.27 in his office last month, headed by $3,932.40 sewage maintenance payments. Rent also accounted for $651, and pavement opening permits $771.

Ten building permits were issued in November by Clarence Wooten, building inspector, who collected $96 in fees. The value of construction approved in the permits was $58,250.

Police Magistrate W. C. Messersmith submitted his report, showing that he disposed of 100 cases with fines amounting to $720.

Alderman Greener, reporting for the garage committee, announced that 1518 gallons of gasoline and 92 quarts of oil were used by city-owned vehicles last month.

The city attorney discussed legal procedure he has taken for removal of two abandoned, tumble-down buildings which have been condemned as safety hazards.

Carpentier Gives Lincoln Portrait To Morgan County

In June 1860, Attorney Abraham Lincoln went to the studio of his friend Alex Heister, to have a photograph made. At the time Lincoln was considered a likely candidate for the nomination for president by the young Republican party.

This photograph was the one most used in Lincoln's victorious campaign over Stephen A. Douglas. After he got into the White House, a little girl from Missouri wrote him a letter declaring that he would look better with a beard, "since your chin is awfully thin," Lincoln wrote her a letter of thanks and took her advice.

The glass negative was accidentally broken. A few years ago photograph to Commissioner Ho-County Superintendent of Schools, Lincoln was discovered that the photograph had been made a duplicate and was now owned by many of Carpentier's friends were on hand for the great ceremony. A few hours after Carpentier's visit to Jacksonville, a native of Illinois, Secretary of State Charles H. Heister, told the Associated Press that he would buck the Stratton administration in next April's primary and would run either for governor or secretary of state. Wright said that under no circumstances, would he accept an appointment by Gov. Stratton. Wright's term as treasurer ends early in 1957.

Surviving are three sons, Glenn, Harvey and Paul, all of Greenfield; two daughters, Mrs. Texas Kramer of Wood River and Mrs. Robert Buck of Jerseyville; one sister, Mrs. Maud Dale, who resided with Mrs. Roberts and her three sons; and seven grandchildren.

Two sons—one of whom, George, died in Italy in World War II—preceded their mother in death.

The remains are at the Shields Memorial Home in Greenfield, where the family will meet friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Psychologist Wins $64,000: Answers Query On Boxing

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Joyce Brothers, a 28-year-old blonde psychologist, Tuesday night won $64,000 by answering a question about boxing that ranged from ancient Rome to the modern day ring.

She was the second contestant in the history of CBS television show "The $64,000 Question," to try to win the top prize.

To win the prize, Dr. Brothers named Cestus as the special gloves gladiators wore in ancient Rome. Daniel Mendoza was the first of scientific boxers to become champion of England in 1791. Gentleman John Jackson was the English champ who taught boxing to poet Lord Byron. William Hazlitt as the essayist who wrote "The Fight" after seeing Bill Neat defeat Thomas Hickman in England in 1821, and "Hickman the Gasman" as the boxer's nickname.

Also, the full name of the Marquis of Queensbury, John Sholto Douglas; Rome the city and Paulino Uzcudun the opponent in Primo Carnera's heavyweight title defense in 1933; and finally, that Jack Dempsey knocked down Luis Firpo nine times in their classic battle, and that the length of the fight was 3 minutes and 57 seconds.

The pretty young mother of an infant daughter caught the boxing fan bug from her doctor husband. She had an expert to help her answer the big question—He was Eddie Egan, former Olympic boxing champion and one-time New York State boxing commissioner.

All contestants are allowed this privilege when they reach the $64,000 level. She conferred several times with Egan to confirm her answers.

Earlier, a Danville, W. Va., coal miner, Stanley Skeens, won $32,000 by answering a 10-part query on the story of David and Goliath. "The Lord has been awfully good to me and I think he still will be. I'm going on," Skeens said in announcing his decision to try. If he had missed, he would have gotten an expensive car, but no money. The same applied to Dr. Brothers. Both, however, could have quit with what they had won previously.

WINCHESTER—The December meeting of the Winchester "Day Unit" of the Morgan-Scott Home Bureau was held Monday at the home of Mrs. Gerald Heaton with a pot luck dinner.

During the business session, presided over by the chairman, Mrs. Joe Worrell, pledge of flag was given, followed by a song by the group and the reading of the minutes of the last meeting.

Twenty-two members answered roll call by telling of "The Christmas I best remember as a child."

Reports of vice chairman Mrs. Olin Clark, 4-H chairman Mrs. Paul Steckel, health, Mrs. Robert Worrell, program, Mrs. Watson Taylor, ways and means, Mrs. Herman Weeder, and commodities, Mrs. Earl Claywell, were given and the highlights of the November board meeting were read by Mrs. Joe Worrell.

The major lesson, "Pampering Walls and Woodwork," was presented by Mrs. Harry Rueter and Mrs. Olin Clark. The selected subject, "Christmas Party and Music," was presented by Mrs. Marvin Tholen. The Christmas story was given by Mrs. William Sealeck.

The captains, Mrs. Marvin Tholen and Mrs. Paul Steckel, gave the report on the activity program and announced Mrs. Olin Clark and Mrs. Clyde North high for the month of November.

Instead of the gift exchange the members will provide a Christmas basket for a Scott County family and presents for a ward at the Jacksonville State Hospital.

The next meeting was announced for Jan. 3 at 11 a.m. with a sack lunch at the home of Mrs. Merle Hellwell with Mrs. John Barnett as co-hostess.

Charge Stevenson Failed To Honor Union Picket Line

CHICAGO (AP)—A question was raised whether Adlai E. Stevenson and two aides crossed a one-man picket line Tuesday when they boarded a plane at Chicago's Midway Airport.

After the Stevenson party departed on a United Air Lines flight for New York, David Landry, an official of the Flight Engineers International Assn., which is striking against UAL, telephoned Chicago's City News Bureau and said Stevenson had not honored the picket line.

Stevenson went to New York for an address Thursday before the AFL-CIO unity convention.

Stevenson's office, informed of the report, telephoned the candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Patricia Milligan, a Stevenson aide, said Stevenson, and his aides, William McCormick Blair Jr. and Roger Tubby, reported they had seen no pickets and were unaware that a strike against UAL was in progress.
